SUMMER LEADERSHIP INSTITUTE 2012 –
NEXT STEP and MONEY & MANAGING CHANGE

ANNE-MARIE KEE

Anne-Marie Kee completed a B.A. in English, a B.Ed. and an M.Ed. from Queen's University in Kingston; her Additional Qualifications include Special Education, Design & Technology and Principals Qualifications Parts One and Two. She taught for the Lennox and Addington School Board for six years before moving to Montreal. At Lower Canada College, Anne-Marie was a Senior English teacher, the Dean of Studies and Chair of the Integrated Technology Implementation program.

In 2006, she became Executive Director of the Canadian Educational Standards Institute (CESI) where she initiated the National Tracking Project, co-authored the National Technology Project: A Report on Effective Practice and lead the organization through a national collaborative review of the standards and procedures of accreditation, which eventually lead to recognition by the NAIS International Commission of Accreditation and the Association of Accrediting Agencies of Canada.

In the fall of 2009, when CAIS and CESI created a new national organization, she was appointed the first Executive Director of the new association, CAIS (Canadian Accredited Independent Schools). Anne-Marie lives in St. Catharines, Ontario with her husband and two children.
